BLOG WRITING TIPS

- Use a voice recorder on a tape machine or your phone. Simply tell the story verbally, then send the recording or transcribe what you've said. Many times a story is easier to flow from the lips than the hand!
- Use a story theme to get started. Don't feel like you need to share every detail if the subject is too broad.
- Find a couple pictures to add to the story. Two –three is ideal! Pictures can sometimes add to the story flow if you have a difficult time coming up with an idea of what to write.
- Please include contact information for your website or email if you wish to have follow up with the readers. I will hyper link your blog post with website information if I see fitting.
- Don't forget to site any sources you may have used to write your blog!
- Write what you feel comfortable in length. 100 words can be as powerful as 300 if you are getting your message across!
- Send your blog post in an email with the information from this cover form please.
